

Short Communication

Cosmetic Dentistry for a Beautiful Smile

Dr. Khushbu Ansari

Corresponding Author: Dr. Khushbu Ansari, Dentist, Cosmetologist, Aesthetician, India.

Received Date: September 21, 2020

Publication Date: October 01, 2020

A smile is the first thing people notice when they meet you for the first time. If your teeth are not organized or not aligned properly, then you may not look good, and your smile may not look impressive at all. In this case, cosmetic dentistry can help you. There are numerous processes that you can choose from in the field of cosmetic dentistry to get a good result.

The processes described below will make your smile more attractive:

Teeth Whitening

Cosmetic dentistry includes teeth whitening service, which is also known as teeth bleaching. Discolored teeth can be rectified by using the cosmetic teeth whitening process.

Dental Veneers

This is a cosmetic dentistry process in which a thin shell is made of composite materials. This artificial shell is used to cover the space between two teeth or hide the crooked teeth. It can also be applied to rectify the discoloration of the teeth.

Dental Implantation

Artificial metal teeth are designed and implanted to cover the space where a tooth is missing. The main ingredient used to make this artificial tooth is titanium. This artificial tooth can give you a permanent solution, which is better than using a bridge. It is made to work as the tooth root and give you a long-lasting result than the tooth crown, denture, or bridge.

Teeth Shaping

This is an ideal choice to shape the misaligned and crooked teeth. This process includes removing or filling the enamel of the teeth and giving it a new shape to improve your smile. This process is chosen to get an instant result. You should not feel any pain in this process when it is done by an expert hand.

Tooth Bonding

This is another cosmetic dentistry process which is also done by the experts at their dental chambers. In this process, the experts use the teeth coloring material to repair teeth. It is suitable for them who have broken, stained, and chipped teeth that make their smile not attractive. This process does not give you much trouble, as well.

Orthodontic Treatment

Though Orthodontic Treatment is meant to solve the dental problems in children, this is now applied to adults as well who want cosmetic dental treatment. The unique orthodontic treatment is served by specialized professionals to improve protruding or crooked teeth. These processes are served at the advanced organizations, and you can opt for any of these to improve your dental condition. But it is always better to consult with a cosmetic dentistry service provider and dentist to know which can be an ideal choice for you according to the budget and dental condition.

Volume 1 Issue 2 October 2020

©All rights reserved by Dr. Khushbu Ansari.